

EMPOWER INFORMED DECISION MAKING

All About the ASVAB Career Exploration Program

The Department of Defense sponsors the ASVAB CEP with a two-part mission: to provide a career exploration service to American youth and provide qualified leads to military recruiters. Participants have no obligation to talk to a military recruiter or enter military service, but students in 11th grade and beyond can use their scores to explore enlistment if they choose.

The ASVAB CEP promotes career literacy through exposure to career-field entry requirements and future-oriented planning tools to help students develop an action plan to share with parents and educators.

The ASVAB CEP is not all about the Military; it's about options. The ASVAB CEP offers an equally unique opportunity to those interested in pursuing post secondary education, work-based learning and the Military because the ASVAB assesses academic ability and predicts success in a variety of careers in addition to military occupations.

ASVAB CEP participants enjoy greater confidence in their career decisions.

Take the ASVAB > Join a Post-Test Interpretation > Use the planning tools

Students gain access to career planning tools when they receive their ASVAB scores. Participating in the Post-Test Interpretation is the best way to make the most of the ASVAB CEP.

ASVAB CEP FEATURES

The ASVAB is one part of the ASVAB CEP

Start by taking the ASVAB

Students in grades 10-12 and college students are invited to participate. Participation in the ASVAB CEP is ALWAYS voluntary.

The test is available in two formats, paper and pencil and computer adaptive.

This heavily researched aptitude test measures students' developed strengths and potential for success in training. The test results can be used to guide career planning, regardless of post-secondary intention.

POST-TEST INTERPRETATION

After taking the ASVAB, students join this guided session to:

- Receive ASVAB Score explanation
- Complete the FYI and understand work-related interests
 - The Find Your Interests (FYI) inventory is based on John Holland's widely accepted theory of career choice. The FYI asks questions about the kinds of activities students like, or possibly like, to reveal their strongest interest areas.
- The Work Values: Situational Judgment Activity: Helps students determine the aspects of work that are important to them.
- Discover potentially satisfying career fields that coincide with their unique skill-interest profile
- Explore the many ways to gain career field entry using the OCCU-Find, a career catalog with job-specific information geared toward helping students identify potentially satisfying career fields and make action plans.

Career exploration is an ongoing process. Make concrete career plans with tangible outputs.

- My Portfolio: helps students chart and share their plans and accomplishments.
- My Educational and Career Plans: encourages students to make initial career plans and evaluate current and future opportunities for training.
- My Coursework Planner: helps students determine coursework requirements for entry into occupations of interest.
- Classroom Activities: integrates into any curriculum and engages students in ongoing career exploration.
- careersinthemilitary.com: allows students to discover extensive details about military career opportunities across all Services, their Service-specific ASVAB line scores, and easily contact a recruiter from any Service.
